Iroko hardwood

Iroko hardwood is valued for its quality and natural resistance to outdoor conditions.

The wood's natural oils provide protection against moisture, fungi, and weathering, making it well suited for outdoor furniture.

Iroko offers a warm, refined appearance while requiring minimal maintenance.

It may be left to weather naturally to a soft silver-grey, or maintained in its original tone.

The wood comes treated with several layers of natural tung oil. This is a drying oil obtained from the nut of a tung tree.
